

Welcome to the Credly Issuer Newsletter

Welcome to the August Issuer Newsletter. This month we have some exciting product updates and events.

Product Updates

The Barbie movie hit the theaters last month, and it was fun to see the retrospectives of how the doll has changed since 1959. (Fun fact: Here's what Barbie looked like the year you were born.)

Like Barbie, we want to stay up to date. To that end, our product and design teams have been rolling out small changes that you may have noticed. These do not impact functionality, but we'd like to recap these for you.

1. The screens for bulk issuing have been spruced up and the process somewhat streamlined. You still use the same spreadsheet. Here's a quick video.
2. In the near future, the single issue page will also be refreshed.
3. The admin page, where you add others to your account, also received a makeover. Same functionality – just freshened font and colors.

SSO into the Academy!

Anyone who belongs to an account (read-only, issuer, admin) can pass through and explore what we have to offer. Even if you've been with us for a while, there is new content and a new badge program!

This also means that when you add additional users to your account, they can access the training they need, whether that is an entire path or just 1-2 courses.

Marketing/Event Updates

Upcoming events

The next Masterclass is August 23 at 12 noon central. "Supporting Your Earners" will review ways to help your earners understand the value of a credential and what steps to take to put the credential to use. Register here.

Turning to September, as usual, we will host our monthly AMA and platform trainings on September 6 and 7. Dig into the Academy and Live Training to register!

Let us know if you have specific ideas for additional courses or needs for learning. Write to us at academy@credly.com.

Have an awesome day!
