API Updates

For those who use our API for any reason, here is more information about updating your integration (now that we have finished with the rebrand).

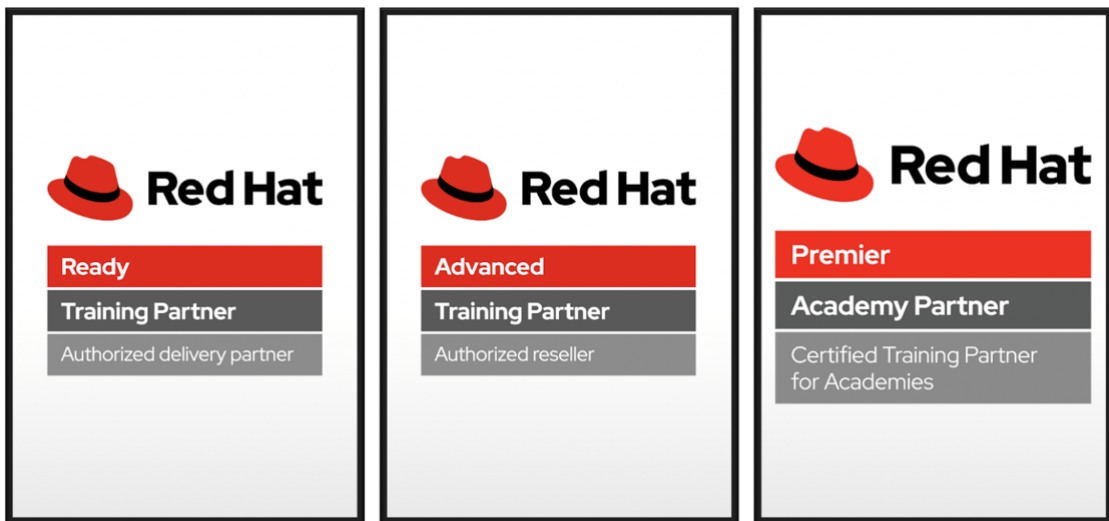

B2B Growth

Are you looking for ways to expand or grow your program? Do you offer training to corporate clients or have you considered customer recognition? If so, don't forget that we offer the ability to send a credential to an organization. We call this B2B badging, and it has become more popular in the past year. This is a free feature that you can discuss with our Customer Success team.

Red Hat

Red Hat Training and Certification uses B2B badging to provide their partners with a digital, verified version of the Red Hat logo showing the authorized services they can deliver on behalf of Red Hat. Partners use the badge sharing options to showcase their partnership on their website or company LinkedIn page. Red Hat partners also leverage the labor market insights information during conversations with students. Overall, the Red Hat partner badging program provides Red Hat a better way to issue, manage and monitor the use of their training partner logos.

News You Can Use

We have a new integration with Degreed, which allows our shared customers to recognize skills development through employee learning. We're pretty excited about this! Read more about the integration here or have a listen to a recent podcast.

Please don't hesitate to reach out to your assigned CSM or email [\[email protected\]](#) with any questions you may have. We are happy to help!
